

RECORDS OF CLINIC AND FORM NOTABLE MEDICAL HISTORY

Results of Operations at Congress Here Will Be Compiled

HOSPITAL WORK SHOWN

Photographs illustrating this story may be found on the Editorial Page.

Work on what is expected to be one of the greatest medical documents in a decade was undertaken today, when a committee appointed by the Clinical Congress of Surgeons...

The "end result" committee, of which a Philadelphia, Dr. Robert A. LeConte, is chairman, was organized today to collect the data which will be presented in a report at the convention next year in New York.

The many surgical demonstrations that have been made during the present congress already have distinguished in importance any other group of clinics ever held in this country.

All the new methods of tumor and cancer removal and cure, during operations on the brain, spine, chest, abdomen, etc., were demonstrated by Philadelphia surgeons...

A spectacular exhibition of modern military first-aid work as it is done in the field hospitals in the European war zone began today in a tented hospital city of 500 beds on Belmont plateau, Fairmount park...

HOSPITAL DEMONSTRATION Virtually the entire Lakeside Unit Red Cross Hospital, of Cleveland, has been transplanted to Belmont plateau for the exhibition...

The tented hospital city on Belmont plateau gave the visiting surgeons and hundreds of other physicians from Philadelphia...

There are twenty-six large-sized ward tents in the unit and each tent contains twenty beds. In the center of the city of tents is a large operating tent, equipped with instruments, surgical supplies and all of the appliances of modern surgery.

MILITARY DISCIPLINE The hospital base presented a distinct military appearance. A detachment of regulars from the regular army, under Major Harold W. Jones, patrolled the streets of the hospital base, and a sentry in the uniform of the United States army was on guard at each tent.

Special trains were run to Belmont plateau this morning to take visiting surgeons and physicians from Philadelphia and officers of the War Department at Washington, officers of the United States army and navy and officials of health boards of towns and cities of Pennsylvania and nearby States.

Surgeons and physicians moved through the streets of the hospital base, praising the equipment and marveling at the thoroughness of everything. It is expected that the exhibition will prove a great impetus to preparedness along Red Cross lines.

WOODROW WILSON DAY CELEBRATED; NEW YORK MEN AT SHADOW LAWN

Democrats Throughout Nation Honor President, While He Receives 10,000 From the Metropolis

SHADOW LAWN, Long Branch, N. J., Oct. 28.—Democrats in every city, town and hamlet of the United States today are celebrating Woodrow Wilson Day. There is but one exception: Shadow Lawn.

The Democratic Party of New York City, under the leadership of its president, Dr. George W. Crile, is celebrating Woodrow Wilson Day at the Belmont plateau, Fairmount park, where the hundreds of surgeons attend the congress. This morning the exhibition was for surgeons and doctors only, but this afternoon the public was admitted in the hope that the spectacle would stimulate the spirit of preparedness in this section of the country.

There are twenty-six large-sized ward tents in the unit and each tent contains twenty beds. In the center of the city of tents is a large operating tent, equipped with instruments, surgical supplies and all of the appliances of modern surgery.

WOMEN OF CITY UNITE TO FIGHT RISING COST OF FOOD NECESSITIES

Joint Committee Formed to Urge Regulation of the Distribution of Commodities by Authorities

The first organized effort of Philadelphia women to fight the increasing cost of living was made this morning at the Civic Club, Thirteenth and Spruce streets, where representatives of leading women's organizations formed a joint committee to take the consumers' side on the question of milk, bread and other necessities that are mounting in price.

Under the direction of this joint committee the women will appear at the public hearing on the milk situation to be held here Friday in the chamber of Commerce headquarters by the joint commission named by the Governors of Pennsylvania, Delaware and Maryland.

Other women's organizations represented were New Century Club, Mrs. William E. Buehler, Home Economics Association, Mrs. N. D. Hitchcock, Home and School League, Mrs. Charles Fernald, New Century Guild, Miss Martha B. Hacker, Philadelphia Mothers' Club, Mrs. Miller Forbes, Philadelphia Council of Jewish Women, Miss S. Levi, Kensington Neighborhood House, Mrs. Hugh F. Munro, Mothers' Club of the Southwark Neighborhood House, Mrs. N. D. Hitchcock, Philomathean Club, Mrs. James P. D. Hitchcock, and the National Organization of Retail Druggists, Mrs. William E. Lee.

All other organizations not represented at the meeting will be urged to co-operate and to send one or more representatives each to the milk hearing next Friday and to join in all future discussions of the joint committee.

The work of the committee will be to represent the consumers and householders at all public hearings on food and home supplies and to urge the regulation of food distribution by Federal or State commission, as has been done in the milk situation, said Mrs. N. D. Hitchcock, vice president of the home economics committee of the Civic Club.

Auto Thieves Elude Pursuers

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa., Oct. 28.—After a chase that continued all night, two men in an automobile alleged to have been stolen from Chicago, eluded the police and pursued in automobiles led by Chief of Police Tepel, of Williamsport. The chase led through Lycoming and part of Tioga counties, and it was not until 11 o'clock that the police succeeded in capturing the automobile thieves, who were headed through a barricade of barrels and boxes across the road, but the car shot through it.

MASKED NEGRO ROBS MOORES BUSINESS MAN

Holds Revolver to Head of W. E. Wunderlich, Who Is Taken at Disadvantage Aboard

The police authorities are scouring through Delaware County today for an unidentified negro, who with a revolver and wearing a mask, robbed William E. Wunderlich, a prominent business man of Moore's, who was in bed at his home. The negro appeared before Mr. Wunderlich about 4 o'clock this morning. He made his escape after taking $15 in cash and two gold watches belonging to the Wunderlich family.

No member of the Wunderlich family knew of the hold-up until the negro fled, when Mr. Wunderlich gave the alarm. Immediately neighbors and farmers jumped into automobiles and began to make a zig-zag search for the negro.

Mr. Wunderlich was aroused by the negro, who touched him on the right temple with the barrel of the revolver. In the glare of the flashlight Mr. Wunderlich saw before him a giant negro. His face was covered with a cheap black mask. As the negro spoke the mask slipped down a little and Mr. Wunderlich recognized the hand as being a negro.

"If you open your mouth I'll blow your brains out," the negro whispered.

After going through Mr. Wunderlich's clothes the intruder walked down to the first floor and walked out to the yard and vanished. It is believed the negro got into the house by forcing open a window of one of the rooms of the Wunderlich house on the ground floor.

Single Taxers Talk Three Times

Single Tax Party campaigners held open air rallies last night at Broad street and Girard avenues, Broad street and Snyder avenues, and Fifty-second and Sanson streets. The speakers were Robert C. Marston, candidate for United States Senator; James A. Robinson, candidate for State Treasurer; William Wright, candidate for Auditor General; and James F. Cox, member of the Philadelphia Vigilant Club, Germantown.

BRITISH SHIPPING TRUST BALKED TRADE IN U. S. TO GRAB BIG CARGO

Sent Secret Information of Cement Shipment to Manufacturers in Denmark, Commerce Chamber Says

Further evidence of alleged unfair tactics of the British shipping trust was brought to light today through investigation made by the Chamber of Commerce, which controls seven lines running from New York to South America, took an order for 7000 tons of cement away from the Pennsylvania Manufacturers' Association at rates to suit its own convenience.

A South American republic, according to the records, decided to buy the cement for its public works. Inquiries for bids were made through the Department of Commerce and Labor, with instructions that the prices quoted should include freight. Rates were asked from the seven lines by the Pennsylvania Manufacturers' Association and at the end of a week they were quoted rates of $35 a ton.

It was learned later that the South American republic had placed the order in Denmark. It was subsequently discovered that the office in London gave a rate of $15 a ton to the Danish manufacturer. In this manner the big purchase was diverted from America to a foreign country.

AMERICANISM HIS THEME

By R. B. SMITH NEWARK, N. J., Oct. 28.—Huge crowds turned out to greet Charles Evans Hughes as he swept across his home State today. Hundreds and thousands got up before daylight to greet the Republican nominee and hear him speak.

Mr. Hughes preached a vigorous Americanism and repeated his warning against a "false prosperity."

"You must excuse the rather harsh quality of my voice," he laughingly told a crowd here. "It represents some very earnest work in a good cause."

The candidate urged a businesslike administration, so that in the expanding of the activities of the Government the country will not be overwhelmed by the burden of taxation.

"There is no prosperity for the United States," he said, "if we go about our great international business in indifferent and haphazard fashion. Our opponents told us in very explicit terms that the constitutional rights of American citizens would follow them throughout the world. Their performance has not matched their promise. We shall have no peace, no security, unless we maintain our self-respect; unless we not only desire but deserve the friendship and esteem of all the nations because we show the courage and spirit of those who gave us our country and of those who preserved our country; unless the flag means justice and courteous treatment and a firm and unflinching insistence on American rights with respect to American lives and American commerce on land and sea throughout the world."

PERSHING RETIREMENT AND GUARD ON BORDER PLAN OF COMMISSION

Ninth Week of Joint Body's Session Closes With Report of Progress in Mexican Problem

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Oct. 28.—The American-Mexican Joint Commission adjourned the ninth week of its sessions with an official announcement that a definite agreement for the establishment of peace along the border is well under way.

The proposed agreement contemplates the withdrawal of the expeditionary column under General Pershing as soon as it can be effected, and is said also to provide for a considerable reduction in the United States troops on the border patrol.

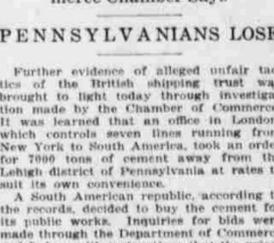

Outside influences have affected the work of the commission more during the last few days than at any time since it began the task of settling the international tangle. Efforts to create an impression that the commission considered the activity of Francisco Villa as a negligible factor have been persistent.

It is known that the American section has been greatly worried by the absence of definite news on the situation in Chihuahua. The Mexican commissioners have been either unable or unwilling to furnish data on this which was extensive enough to give the Americans an accurate idea of what really is going on.

Reports that arms and ammunition had been smuggled into Mexico from the United States and insistence of the Mexican representatives that the United States Government take steps to check the armament trade today Villa and other bandits are receiving from persons on this side of the border were features of the day's discussion.

HALLOWEEN NEARING WITH FUN AND FROLIC

Rush of Shoppers and Last Hour Preparation for Celebration Tuesday

When the gloaming, with its mysterious shadows growing ever more mysterious, has settled down upon this day, Philadelphia will have passed through the greater part of its preparation for Halloween.

The major portion of the work is over. Sunday and Monday will slide rapidly by with little time for anything more important than the finishing details of the parties, raids, "scare" and receptions to hallowing.

The Halloween rush is in full swing at the postoffice today. Before this became known hardly any one realized that, just as there are Christmas rushes, there is also a Halloween rush. The week ending the witching period makes its annual appearance. Halloween cards, thousands of them, and belated, last-minute invitations to parties Tuesday night passed through the chutes at the postoffice.

OLD-TIME WINDUP OF REPUBLICAN CAMPAIGN IN CITY

Torchlight Parades, Red Fire and Oratory Mark Next Week

ROOSEVELT MAY BE HERE

Arrangements for giving Philadelphia next week the appearance it had during Republican campaigns ten and twenty years ago are progressing rapidly.

Parades such as they had in the McKinley campaign in 1896, with red fire and torchlight and brass bands, will be given, starting Wednesday next, while the night of the same night and ending Saturday. Republican orators will appeal to voters to support Hughes and Fairbanks at a meeting of the public State and city candidates in a series of sectional rallies that will be held in each congressional district.

ROOSEVELT MAY SPEAK The plans for an old-time Republican campaign will culminate in a monster meeting to be held at the Academy of Music on Friday night next, when delegates and representatives from eastern Pennsylvania, southern New Jersey, Delaware and Maryland will join with Philadelphia Republicans. The speakers are being made to secure Theodore Roosevelt as the principal speaker on that night.

Arrangements were made today to circulate 50,000 tickets for each of the sectional meetings. The big rally will be held at the Academy of Music, however, will be distributed that those bearing proper credentials can obtain admittance.

As the first step toward actually organizing the meetings, the workers are being brought together in various parts of the city every night. Senators Vane and Nichol, Congressman Vane and Graham and the various ward leaders are discussing with the workers the plans for the rallies and are urging them to help make the indicative of Philadelphia Republicanism.

THREE WARD RALLIES The workers of three wards were addressed last night.

Two meetings were held in the Forty-sixth Ward. Congressman George F. Jackson, Harry A. Mackey, Thomas J. McNichol and James A. Walker and James Franklin, the latter two candidates for the Legislature from the Forty-sixth and Forty-seventh wards, were the speakers at a meeting held at Arcade Hall, 4319 Baltimore avenue.

These speakers then went to O'Donnell Hall, Fifty-third and Spruce streets, to address a meeting of the workers of the Forty-fourth Ward at 423 North Fifty-third street. This was followed by one in the Thirty-third Ward, at the National Hotel, North Broad street, where Felix Archibald Webster, William J. Wagoner, William W. Lucas, Thomas F. McNichol and James H. Bennett addressed these meetings.

The meetings held last night concluded similar gatherings that have been held in about half the wards of the city during the last week.

Starting Monday other meetings will be held in the wards that have not yet been visited.

"PENNSYLVANIA DAY" ON MONDAY Between 2000 and 3000 Pennsylvanians are expected to go over to New York Monday to observe "Pennsylvania Day." A Monday meeting that will be held under the direction of Senator Penrose.

The meeting will be held under the auspices of the Pennsylvania League of the United States. The organization was formed during the McKinley-Bryan campaign in 1896. The league includes the Pennsylvania State Association, Jewelers' Association, Wholesale Dry Goods Association, National Women's Republican Association and others.

The meeting will be held at 350 Broadway, where the league has been conducting daily noonday meetings in the interest of Hughes and Fairbanks.
